Call for Speakers

We're excited to announce that HDN's Autumn Conference will take place in Birmingham on 3rd October 2024. We're aware that this date coincides with Rosh Hashanah (Jewish New Year). While we strive to accommodate everyone and avoid religious dates, this year's scheduling was constrained by venue availability during this period. We appreciate your understanding and we hope you can still join us.

The event is designed to encourage conversation, inspire action, and drive meaningful change in the housing sector. Our conference is not just about discussing the importance of equality, diversity, and inclusion—it's about amplifying best practice, sharing innovative ideas, and creating solutions that foster inclusion in both organisations and communities.

We are therefore calling on passionate individuals, thought leaders, and experts from diverse backgrounds to join us as speakers and facilitators. Whether you have been working on tackling racial justice, LGBTQ+ issues, gender equality, disability or neurodiversity, or any other aspect of diversity, we want to hear from you.

Whatever your expertise or perspective may be, we invite you to share your insights, experiences, and solutions with our community.

By speaking at this conference, you will have the opportunity to:

- Engage with a diverse audience of decision makers and EDI leads
- Amplify your voice and expand your network within the housing sector
- Spark critical conversations and inspire action

We want to build a conference programme that reflects how new thinking and experience can shape the way that services are delivered, and celebrates the power of diversity to drive positive change.

Join us in shaping a more inclusive future in housing. Apply to be a speaker at HDN's Autumn Conference.

To submit your proposal or learn more about the conference, please contact Michael Da Costa at michael@housingdiversitynetwork.co.uk

Link to the event page is below; our early bird ticket offer is now on sale as well.
